LAND MARKS & LOCAL ATTRACTIONS

Kandoofa, once a vital mangrove forest sustaining the food supply of Muraidhoo's community, has significantly declined due to erosion. This loss has adversely affected traditional livelihoods and local ecological balance.

Children's Park in Muraidhoo is a family-friendly space surrounded by lush greenery, colorful playgrounds, and ample picnic areas. It offers a safe and enjoyable environment where children can play and explore, while parents relax in a serene setting. Ideal for visitors of all ages, the park provides a refreshing escape for quality time and relaxation.

LOCAL COUSINES & CULTURE

Haa Alif Muraidhoo, located in the northern Maldives, is home to approximately 900 residents and is recognized as one of the country's leading banana-producing islands.

The island also features a natural mangrove wetland and a house reef frequented by manta rays, adding to its ecological significance. Rich in history, Muraidhoo is associated with notable figures such as Hassan Kaleyge and Hussein Dahara Takurufan. It preserves the traditional Maldivian way of life and is celebrated for its warm hospitality and vibrant community events.
